

Join us for an interactive roundtable discussion on

‘BEHAVIORAL AND EXPERIMENTAL PUBLIC FINANCE: A CONVERSATION ABOUT TRENDS, CHALLENGES, AND OPPORTUNITIES FOR SCHOLARLY RESEARCH’

This roundtable discussion is intended to encourage multi-disciplinary scholarly research that combines theories, methods and empirical findings from psychology, behavioral public policy, and behavioral economics to address important questions in public finance.

Structure:

- Three brief research presentations on the use of behavioral and/or experimental methods to study public finance questions.
- Conversation about challenges and research opportunities of behavioral and/or experimental research for the study of public budgeting and finance.

ABFM Annual Conference

Saturday, October 6, 2018

11:15am-12:30pm

Embassy Suites Denver
Downtown Convention
Center, Silverton I

Everyone's invited!

Doctoral students and early career scholars are especially welcomed!

Organizers:

- Wie Yusuf (Old Dominion University) – jyusuf@odu.edu
- Salvador Espinosa (San Diego State University) – sepinos@sdsu.edu
- Kenneth Kriz (University of Illinois-Springfield) – kkriz4@uis.edu